

FRIDAY 3/19 12:30-2PM

"ABC'S OF GLOBAL COLLABORATION TO FIGHT HUMAN TRAFFICKING"

BY THE SAN FRANCISCO COLLABORATIVE AGAINST HUMAN TRAFFICKING AND THE INTERNATIONAL ALLIANCE OF WOMEN

This panel explores San Francisco's innovative partnerships to address human trafficking through interdisciplinary and multi-agency collaboration involving consular offices, social services and law enforcement agencies, non-profit organizations, faith-based groups and socially responsible businesses. These partnerships, using victim-centered approaches, address transnational human trafficking implications through international cooperation. The interfaith community, consular offices and organizations supporting immigrants and sex workers are given a special role. Continued training to professionals is provided. Businesses support through advanced technology and progressive business practices. The workshop will include a video, presentations, and a Q&A session.

Panelists Include (View the biographies in the back of this flyer):

"ABC'S OF GLOBAL COLLABORATION TO FIGHT HUMAN TRAFFICKING"

BY THE SAN FRANCISCO COLLABORATIVE AGAINST HUMAN TRAFFICKING AND THE INTERNATIONAL ALLIANCE OF WOMEN

Antonia Lavine is a lawyer with over 20 years experience in criminal prosecution, litigation and oversight. She holds Master of Laws degrees in International Legal Studies and United States Legal Studies from the San Francisco Golden Gate University School of Law. As a public prosecutor and criminal law expert in Europe, she specialized in law enforcement, justice reform and legislative action in the areas of human rights protection and combating complex crime. With law degrees in both the civil and common law legal systems, Antonia is consulted regularly for her comparative and international law expertise. She has directly contributed to drafting various pieces of domestic and international legislation, including the European Convention on Action Against Trafficking in Human Beings, and served for several years as an appointed expert on the European Union's Group of Experts on Trafficking in Human Beings. In her current positions as Coordinator of the San Francisco Collaborative Against Human Trafficking, Executive Director of the National Council of Jewish Women San Francisco and Treasurer of the International Alliance of Women, Antonia utilizes her legal expertise and project management skills in social justice reform and advocacy action. For her social justice work in fighting discrimination, violence and exploitation, Antonia has received the prestigious CEDAW Women's Human Rights Award of the San Francisco Friends of the Commission on the Status of Women and Award of Recognition for Outstanding Achievements in Cross-System Collaboration from the California Department of Social Services.

Cheryl Hayles spent her career in education as a School Administrator responsible for building staff capacity, instructional program (French Immersion & Virtual Learning), and community engagement. Cheryl studied at McGill University in Montreal, Canada where she earned a Bachelor of Education, then went on to complete a Masters degree at the Université de Besangon, France. As an advocate for women's rights, Cheryl has been an influencer in how systems align to support women's empowerment globally

Susan M. Breall is a judge in the Superior Court for the City and County of San Francisco. Currently, she presides over dependency matters in the Unified Family Court. She has been a Superior Court Judge for 19 years. Prior to her assignment to the dependency court, Judge Breall presided over a juvenile delinquency court for three years. She also previously ran San Francisco's domestic violence court. As part of her juvenile delinquency assignment, she created the first Girls Court in San Francisco. This court handles all delinquency cases involving girls who are at risk of sexual exploitation and trafficking. In 2006, Judge Breall was appointed by Chief Justice Ronald George to the California Alliance to Combat Trafficking and Slavery Task Force. In 2011, she was invited by Supreme Court Justice Sandra Day O'Connor to participate and speak at the 2011 international Human Trafficking Summit, which Justice O'Connor hosted at Arizona State University. Since 2017, Judge Breall has been the Co-Chair of the San Francisco Collaborative Against Human Trafficking, a coalition of over 50 government and law enforcement agencies, non-profit organizations and faith-based groups committed to ending modern-day slavery. She has been faculty on several national judicial trainings on human trafficking that were sponsored by the National Center for Juvenile and Family Court judges, Rights 4 Girls, and the U.S. Department of Justice. Judge Breall's previous assignments have included presiding over both adult and juvenile drug court, felony settlement court, long cause preliminary hearings, and serious adult criminal jury trials. Prior to her appointment to the bench in 2001, she was Chief of the Criminal Division of the San Francisco district Attorney's Office for all crimes of violence against women, children, elderly and intimate partners. Judge Breall has done numerous trainings for police and prosecutors throughout the United States. In 1997 she was invited to the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina where she conducted domestic violence trainings for the Federation of Bosnian Judges on police investigations, interview techniques and evidence gathering for domestic violence cases. In 1998, she conducted trainings for all the police officers in the United States Virgin Islands on legal issues affecting battered immigrant women.

Julia Flynn Siler is a New York Times best-selling author and journalist. Her most recent book, The White Devil's Daughters: The Women Who Fought Slavery in San Francisco's Chinatown (Knopf, May 2019), is a New York Times Editors' Choice. Her other books are Lost Kingdom: Hawaii's Last Queen, The Sugar Kings, and America's First Imperial Adventure. Her first book, The House of Mondavi: The Rise and Fall of an American Wine Dynasty, was a finalist for a James Beard Award and a Gerald Loeb Award for distinguished reporting. A veteran journalist, Siler is a longtime contributor and former staff writer for The Wall Street Journal and has been a guest commentator on the BBC, CNBC, and CNN. She lives in Northern California with her husband and their two sons.

Dr. Emily Murase served as Director of the San Francisco Department on the Status of Women, advancing gender equity and preventing gender-based violence for over 15 years. She led a multi-year initiative that eliminated domestic violence homicides for a record four years. Her leadership earned the UN Institute for Training and Research Gender Equity Award and the "Modern Day Abolitionist Award" from the SF Collaborative Against Human Trafficking. In 2010, she became the first Japanese American to be elected to the San Francisco Board of Education and served two terms, including as President. A member of the Council on Foreign Relations and Soroptimist International San Francisco, she serves as North American Coordinator for the International Alliance of Women. Dr. Murase holds a BA from Bryn Mawr College, a master's in international pacific affairs from UC San Diego, and a PhD in communication from Stanford. She resides with her husband in San Francisco where they raised two adult daughters.
